

WEDNESDAY WILL BE SPOONER DAY

At Noon on That Day
He Will Be Elected
Senator, for the Third Time.

A NOTABLE EVENT

Reception To Be Held in the Assembly Chamber, After the Formal Election Is Over.

(By Staff Correspondent).
Madison, Wis., Jan. 26.—Wednesday will be a notable day for the legislature of 1903 and for the republican party of the state. At sharp twelve the senate and the assembly in joint session will meet and elect John C. Spooner, United States Senator for six years to succeed himself.
His Third Term
With the exception of six years, from 1891 to 1897, when William F.
Vilas was senator, Spooner has represented his state in the senate since 1885. Strange as it may seem his first election to the senate came on January 28th, 1885, eighteen years ago and his re-election will come on the same day of the month.

Reception As Senator John C. Spooner was elected to succeed Angus Cameron in 1885. He served until the democratic landslide of 1890 when he was defeated by William F. Vilas for senatorship although he received all the votes of the republican members. Again in 1893 he was the choice of the republican members then in a minority and John Mitchell, of Milwaukee, was chosen senator. In 1897 he received the entire vote of the republican contingent and was re-elected to the senate succeeding William F. Vilas.

Reception Planned
To meet the demands of the republicans throughout the state a reception has been planned for the senator immediately after the official vote for his re-election. On Tuesday State Senator George P. Miller will nominate Senator Spooner in the senate and Senator Kreutzer will second the nomination. Assemblyman Ira Bradford will do the nominating honors in the assembly and Assemblyman M. S.
Dudgeon will second the nomination.
This is the program for the separate session and on Wednesday Lt. Gov.
Davidson will preside and will present
Senator Spooner to the joint session.

Democrats Pick Brown
The democrats will vote for Neal Brown and will hold a reception for him in the senate chamber while the republican convention is in the assembly.

NEAR SETTLEMENT.

Prospect That Difficulty Will Be Adjusted on a Fair Basis.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Just at the present time there seems to be an excellent prospect that the Venezuelan difficulty will be settled on a fair basis and speedily. The first step to the settlement is of course the withdrawal of the allied fleet and the complete abandonment of the blockade. To secure this Great Britain and Italy have taken the initiative, and already have expressed their willingness to abandon the blockade and to accept the basis of settlement offered them by Minister Bowen as the accredited representative of Venezuela.

To Abandon Blockade.
The matter has been under consideration by the representatives of the three allied powers here in Washington, and they have all three, including Count Quadt, the German charge d'affaires, agreed to recommend to their respective home governments the abandonment of the blockade and the acceptance of Venezuela's offer to divide the customs house receipts on an equitable basis.

Await Kaiser's Reply.
Whether the three home governments will agree to this program remains to be seen, but there is good ground for the belief that Great Britain and Italy have recommended this plan to Germany, and that the only thing now in the way of its adoption lies in the apparent disinclination of the Kaiser's government to abandon the blockade without a positive guarantee from the United States that Venezuela will keep its promises.

Nations in Concert.
It is not possible to have Great Britain or Italy or either of them withdraw its ships and leave Germany to pursue the blockade alone, because there is an absolute concert of action.
Great Britain, Italy and Germany before inaugurating a blockade entered into an ironclad agreement that they would act together in all matters, and that if force should be applied to Venezuela it would not be withdrawn in such way as to leave any one of the three nations to accept sole responsibility.

Name Easily Written.
A St. Louis merchant uses but two letters in signing his name, although one of the pair is brought into requisition four times. His name is A. A.
Aal.

RAILROAD READY FOR BIG SNOW

Lays Extensive Plans for Meeting Emergencies That Never Came.

Weather prophets of the Chicago & Northwestern road went astray in their predictions for Saturday and Sunday. All through the week the company has been doing a mammoth shipping business. Every car was on the move, and most of them were loaded up to their full tonnage. Consequently, when the forecasters sent out word that a big snow storm was headed for this city and due here Saturday or Sunday, orders were sent out to cut down the weight limit for each car. When the blizzard arrived the tracks would be in bad shape and it was needless that the trains be loaded light enough so that they could pull through without serious delay.

So all day Saturday the road carried lighter cars than during the past few days, although the volume of shipping was immense. All day the trainmen kept on the lookout for the storm that never came. On Sunday the roads were kept nearly as crowded with cars, although there was a greater number of empties. The road is still awaiting the snow and the reputation of the weather men is at stake on what the next few days may bring.

During the past week the volume of freight has been so great that it has been necessary to use five more locomotives on the Wisconsin division than hitherto. Even during the holidays the rush was not so great as it is now.

The coal situation is hearing down upon the roads with renewed threats every day, but relief always comes just in the nick of time. Saturday it looked for several hours as though the Northwestern yards would have to make still further inroads upon their storage coal, but before that was necessary several carloads of coal arrived to relieve the situation.

Will Be Presented to the

CREDIT QUESTION

It Does Not Entirely Agree with the Governor on Some of His Propositions.

(By Staff Correspondent).
Madison, Jan. 26.—The annual report of the tax commission is now ready for presentation to the legislature. The expectations are that it will be sent to that body some time during the day. It is a voluminous document but it covers the work of the commission most thoroughly and has made some salient statements that do not bear out those made by the governor either in his message or in his campaign addresses.

Important Portions
The most important portion is that dealing with taxation of credits. In a general way the report favors the ad valorem system for the taxation of railroads. Direct issue is taken with La Follette on his hobby of taxing intangible property. The commission holds that credits are not property in the true sense.

It's Recommendations
First
"That the law imposing a tax of one mill on each dollar of the assessed valuation of the taxable property as determined by the state board of assessment of the common school fund income be changed to a specific appropriation of a stated amount for that purpose. In the event a specified appropriation is not made then the one mill tax should be limited to $700,000 annually for the ensuing biennial period.

Second
"That the power of assessing the property of express, sleeping car, equipment and freight line companies by virtue of chapters 111, 112, 113 and 114, Laws of 1899, be transferred from the secretary of state, state treasurer and attorney general, and vested in this commission as the state board of assessment.

Third
The passage of an act for the taxation of gifts, inheritances, devices, bequests and legacies in conformity with the law proposed in Chapter IV of this report.

Fourth
"That all existing laws requiring and providing for the assessment and taxation of credits as property or for exemption from assessment on account of debts owing, be repealed, but leaving in full force and effect the existing laws for the taxation of private bankers and the taxation of trust companies and all other corporations or organizations representing moneyed capital.

Fifth
"That the value of railway property be ascertained and determined by a state board with powers and that taxes be levied in such valuation at the average rate of taxation throughout the state, such taxes to be paid into the state treasury for the use of the state. The said board should also be the state board of assessment to ascertain and determine the valuation of the general property of the state as the basis for the appointment and

ARM BROKEN
Boy Is Injured In Door of Interurban
Car Sunday

A boy residing in Beloit was jammed in the doorway of an interurban car by the other passengers while getting off at Baker's corner yesterday, and had one of the bones of his arm fractured. He did not realize he was hurt at first, but later when his arm began to pain him, he went to a doctor and discovered that it was broken. He had the injury attended to and returned home on the six o'clock car. His name could not be learned at this end of the line.

SHADE-GROWN TOBACCO PLANTS

EXPERIMENTS TRIED THE YEAR PAST WERE SUCCESSFUL.

A SYNDICATE MAY BE FORMED

Plans Are Under Consideration for the Establishing of Vast Fields Next Summer.

When Prof. Milton Whitney, of the Bureau of Soils, Department of Agriculture, Washington, made a trip of inspection through the outlying country, observing with special interest the suitability of the soil for tobacco raising, he strongly urged the raisers of shade grown tobacco to send this year's product to Connecticut. There it would be given over to the government experts, under whose eyes the process of fermentation and curing would be carried. The possibility of injuring the delicate leaf, which ought to bring a high price, would thus be minimized.

S. B. Hedges, F. S. Barnes, and Mr. Bemis of Footville, all of whom raised some shade grown Sumatra leaf, thought differently. They recognized a possibility of failure, but the whole shade growing process had been an experiment, and they wished to carry it through to the end.

After some consultation the other growers decided to turn over their crop to Mr. Hedges, and ever since Nov. 26 the curing processes have been going on in the Hedges warehouse. At last the fermentation has been pronounced complete, and this morning the assorting was begun, preparatory to packing.

Went to Connecticut. Before beginning the operation W. A. Cohey and other experts were consulted regarding all of the details. Up to the end of the harvesting of the crop Mr. Cohey was on the spot, but at the end of the time it was necessary for him to return to Connecticut.

During the past holidays Mr. Hedges himself made an extended trip through the tobacco sections of Connecticut, and there he secured many valuable suggestions regarding the care of the Sumatra product. The details of sizing, shading, and packing were all carefully worked out and Mr. Hedges is now confident that there is no disaster to fear in the future.

The critical part of the process has been completed. Since the 26th of November the fermenting has been going on. The leaf has been piled in a room which has been kept humid by a device which Mr. Hedges introduced this year. Instead of allowing the free steam into the room through pet coals, as is the usual mode of procedure, "moisten pans" are used around the outside of the room. These are open troughs of water, through which are passed steam pipes, wholly independent of the heating pipes, by allowing the steam into them the moisture is evaporated from the surface of the pans. The system is considered much more reliable and even in temperature than any other.

Delicate Process Extreme care has been exercised throughout the fermentation. The details were determined upon by the use of all available expert knowledge, and were carefully carried out. The temperature was adjusted to a nicety, ranging from 60 to 120 degrees. The bunks were turned four times during the process.

This morning the assorting began. The utmost pains will be taken in the sizing and shaping, each leaf being carefully graded. The tobacco will be prepared for baling under the most careful scrutiny, that the crop, small as it is, may be made the most of. On the three farms operated by Barnes, Hedges and Bemis, there were only about four acres altogether of the shade grown leaf.

There is no reason why the tobacco should not bring a good market for what little there is of it, as there is practically no competition outside of Connecticut.

Well Satisfied The gentlemen who took up the venture are more than pleased with the results. Samples of the tobacco were sent to Connecticut, and showed up well with the eastern grown product. Wherever Mr. Hedges was taken by Mr. Cohey on his tour of the east he felt satisfied the Wisconsin Sumatra was fully up to the Connecticut, although the Havana seed was inferior.

Those who have looked over the tobacco here have spoken most highly of it, and nearly all traveling tobacco men have taken pains to inspect it. Mr. Tausig of Chicago, a well-known authority, pronounced it a beautiful grade of wrapper leaf.

May Syndicate Crop Plans for the coming year are still in the formative stage. Preparations are, however, going on for the raising of a crop if not on a larger scale, at least on greater proportions than in the past year.

Mr. Hedges says he will put in more land for the shade grown leaf than last year, but he is not sure how much. The result of the past year's experiment has shown all of the men who have tried it that to be most successful the work should be undertaken on a large scale. Several men who are willing to put a certain amount of capital into such a venture have been looking over the possibilities before them, and have almost decided to form a syndicate to raise shade grown tobacco on a large scale. If such a policy should be adopted Columbia or Crawford county would probably be made the scene of the venture.

with England. In 1820 a gang of desperate men, under the leadership of Arthur Thistlewood, met in Cato street, London, and plotted to assassinate the cabinet ministers. They were betrayed, arrested and placed on trial for high treason. They were found guilty and on May 1 Thistlewood and four of his companions were executed.

The last high treason trial in England took place in 1840. It grew out of the so-called chartist riots, which originated in the demand of the people for a charter granting a universal suffrage, vote by ballot, annual parliaments, payment of the members, abolition of property qualifications and equal electoral districts. On Nov. 4, 1839, about 10,000 chartists assembled in the vicinity of Newport, in Monmouthshire, England, and, arming themselves with guns and pikes, marched into the town. They halted in front of the Westgate hotel, in which the magistrates were assembled under the protection of a number of soldiers and special constables. The chartists broke the windows and fired on the inmates, wounding the mayor and several other persons. The soldiers returned the fire and dispersed the rioters after killing about twenty of them.

John Frost, who was the leader of the chartists, and a number of other influential persons were arrested and tried for treason in January, 1840. They were sentenced to death, but the penalty was commuted in transportation. Sixteen years later an amnesty was granted them and they returned to England.

It is centuries since an elected member of the British legislature has been put to death for treason. The last case at all similar to Col. Lynch's was that of Lord Lovat, who assisted Stuart in the rising in Scotland in 1745. He was put to death for treason in the tower of London, where Sir Walter Raleigh and many other historic characters, including some of the wives of Henry VIII, were beheaded. Lord Lovat's execution was the last to take place in the tower of London.

JANESVILLE GIRL SECURES HONORS

Helen Cogswell Scores a Telling Victory in "Peggy From Paris."

"Peggy From Paris," George Ade's second venture in the field of musical comedy, is to be given its first official production at the Studebaker theater this evening. A preliminary presentation, somewhat on the nature of a try-out to ascertain the most profitable points for the use of the blue pencil, was given at South Bend, Ind., on Saturday. James O'Donnell Bennett, dramatic critic of the Chicago Record-Herald, in commenting on the performance has the following to say of Miss Helen Cogswell, a former Janesville girl who appeared in this city not long ago with the Prince of Pilsen:

I was much interested by the efforts of a young woman named on the programme as Helen Hale. Her real name is Helen Cogswell, and she has been unknown to fame hitherto save as a useful member of the chorus in a Savage production. In "Peggy" she has the part of Lily Ann Lynch, further defined by Mr. Ade on the program as the "home-grown article." It is to her Deagan sings the "Lil, I Like You" song, which will probably be the musical hit of the piece. Miss Hale has a brilliant future in the musical comedy if her work of this afternoon means anything. With a bigger part and two or three songs she would have taken the piece right away from the veterans in the cast.

The estate is valued at from two hundred to three hundred thousand dollars and Mr. Haselton's interest is estimated at about $150,000. He was a close friend and adviser of Mrs. Sawyer during her life time and has been substantially rewarded in her will. Mr. Haselton is a son of the late J. M. A traveling man stopping at the Myers house came very near furnishing a sensation Saturday morning, but fortunately escaped injury. He has been at the house for about a week and had a habit of getting into the elevator and running it himself, when bell boy or employees happened to be busy. This morning the elevator had been run up to the third story with some passengers and the door on the main floor left unlocked. About this time, the traveling man something and started for the elevator to go up to his room for something and started for the elevator. He found the door ajar and without looking to see whether the elevator was there or not, opened the door and stepped into the shaft. The result was that he landed at the foot of the shaft about eight feet below all in a heap. Fortunately there was an accumulation of papers and other rubbish on the floor of the shaft which made a soft landing place for him. He was pretty well shaken up by the fall but outside of that was not injured. There is one thing sure that the next time he steps into an elevator shaft he will see that the elevator is at the door.

Mrs. Ella Page of Baraboo, Grand Usher of the Degree of Honor, who has been the guest of Mrs. I. N. Dunwiddie for the past few days was agreeably surprised on Saturday night at a card party, given in her honor by Mrs. Dunwiddie to the members of Olive lodge, No. 27, Degree of Honor.

The party was a secret as far as Mrs. Page was concerned and she was much surprised when the guests, headed by her husband, who she had not expected to see until her return home, was ushered into the house. The party soon engaged in a progressive chess contest the prizes which were provided by the guests being won by Miss Minnie Meggott and John Heller, first; Mrs. W. McCue and C. H. ## SECOND GAME WON BY ROCKFORD TEAM

Janesville Y. M. C. A. Basket Ball Five Was Defeated at Rockford, Saturday Evening.

In their second game against the Rockford Y. M. C. A. basket ball team, played at Rockford Saturday evening, the members of the Y. M. C. A. team, of this city, met defeat, the score being 23 to 24. It was the return game, the Rockford team having played in this city, Saturday evening, Jan. 17. At that time the victory was reversed, the score being 34 to 21 in favor of the home team. Honors are therefore even between the two teams.

Contest Was Close

Saturday evening's game was closely contested and the playing was inclined to be rough. The line-up of the Janesville team included Murdoch and Mathews, forwards; W. Gregory, center; I. Gregory and Palmer, guards. All the baskets from the field for the Janesville team were thrown by the Gregory brothers, the total number being nine. Mathews scored fifteen points by throwing baskets on foul, his throw being accurate fifteen out of twenty-eight times.

Not a Clean Game

Prof. William Norris accompanied the team and served as umpire. The personnel of the Rockford team was the same as in the game in which they were defeated in this city. They had the advantage of playing in their own gymnasium, which is smaller than the one in which the Janesville boys are accustomed to playing. Furthermore it is difficult to find a place where rules against rough playing are enforced as strictly as they are in his city and Saturday evening's game was not an exhibition of clean basket ball.

Sunday Sermons

Trinity Church
 Father Hughson, O. H. C., preached the sermon at Trinity Episcopal church on the opening Sunday morning of the mission services. Inspiration for his discourse had been received from a portion of one of the cataloging chapters of First Chronicles, referring to "Beniah who went down and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day." From his brief description of the men were drawn several conclusions which brought with them lessons particularly applicable to the mission just entered upon, although they were equally pertinent to any other season.

Out of the many other deeds in which Beniah may have figured as one of King David's mighty men said Father Hughson, the chronicler saw fit to make special mention of this one and for good reasons.

Life Or Death?
 Beniah's position in the conflict of which the historian wrote was critical. Two outcomes were possible; either he might slay the lion or be slain. It was a face to face, hand to hand battle, with no opportunity to turn or flee. Our situation, he said, is very similar. The lion in many forms of temptation or weakness faces, and it is no intermediary part. Because he, a soldier of the Lord's servant, David, slew his opponent, there is room for encouragement in the battles of today which are ordered by the Lord. The rite of baptism is the sign of consecration to the ranks of God's fighters.

Beniah knew what his duty was and he faced it in trust, confident that his master was behind him. He did not stop to listen to the temptings of the devil who was probably ready to attempt to convince him that there was a battle awaiting his prowess. If he had thought so it would have proved him bound captive, hand and foot.

A Dread Encounter
 It was a dismal unpromising situation which Beniah had to face, said Father Hughson. He might easily have decided that all other men had an easier lot than he and that it was not worth while for him to fight the lion. But what is the glory of winning if the battle is not dangerous? The day on which he fought was snowy and dark. The storm was raging and the rocks that lined the pit were damp and slippery. Down the steep sides Beniah had to climb, his good sword in his hand awaiting the ferocious beast at the bottom.

There was everything to induce the valiant warrior to defer his lonely, perilous mission to some day when the sky was clear and more favorable for the expedition. But he did not hesitate or postpone and the world has the record of his achievement. In like manner there is a record in the book of life of the good deeds which men and women are doing hourly, fighting battles against lions on snowy days.

Mission Important
 This mission season is an extraordinary time. It is some years since the last was held and it may be years before the next. The voice of Satan is tempting. He urges lack of interest in the services. He argues against yielding to any interest in the meetings, putting forward many specious excuses, saying that the day is dark and slippery. Some other time the way may be clearer and brighter and then the step can be taken more wisely. The emotion which is now urging attendance on the mission and pursuance of its teaching may be only a passing sentiment; better wait until a message given the people of Christ church by Rev. Father Huntington, of the Holy Cross order, Sunday morning in connection with the mission which is being conducted in the two Episcopal churches of this city. Father Huntington is a speaker who commands attention. He is fearfully in earnest and his burning words carry the conviction that they are spoken personally to each one in the audience.

His sermon of Sunday morning was evidence of the fact that he is here for a high purpose. He told the people plainly that he did not intend to seek favor by glossing over truths or speaking carefully. During the mission he wanted each one to do something definite but he wanted every one to act upon the deep conviction of truth and not to be swayed by emotions or impulses.

Sinful Waste of Time
 Father Huntington's message was in strict accord with his policy of plain and truthful dealing. He first denounced emphatically the general practice of wasting time in church. People complain that they have too little time for prayer and yet they spend the time while they are waiting for a service to begin in worldly thoughts or criticism of their neighbors. There is an imperfect irreverence of such a custom. During the mission the speaker hoped that the people would remain on their knees till the service began. There till the morning before acting. In these and many other forms the temptation comes and the outcome may be victory as with Beniah, or defeat.

Every character in the Old Testament is the foreshadowing of someone in the New Testament, said the speaker. In further explanation of the subject, Christ had a lion to slay. His friends urged him to await some more propitious season. They told him that it was dark and the way hazardous, and that he would receive harm. All that they prophesied occurred and more besides. He not only encountered opposition but he was hanged on the tree. On that day the world was truly dark and stormy; the earth shook and the sky was clouded, and the moon and stars were hid. But through it all the Lord Christ Jesus finally conquered and saved the world.

Christ Church
 Earnest, direct and forceful was the message which was to pray about to employ the time.

Privileges and Duties
 People generally have come to accept the fact of the great advantages of being born Christians. The advantages cannot be overestimated but the good is not unconditional. In the final outcome it may be to their eternal joy or to their eternal shame, according to the manner in which they personally respond to these advantages. People cannot have privileges without responsibilities, blessings without duties.

There is a cheap sophism in that people can keep religion in stock and get it when they want it. No true religion can be retained on those terms. If people don't use it, they lose it. The religion that does not manifest itself in daily life and character is slipping from the grasp.

A Plain Issue
 The issue is perfectly plain and clear and is embodied in the question: "Must I Be A Christian?" Young people will be confronted by this question when they have the opportunity to enter into some business or social relation which would not have the approval of the church. From this question three others arise: "Has any such necessity ever been felt?" Can I feel it? and "What is it to be a Christian?"

Necessity Is Felt
 There have been times when this absolute necessity has been felt. Think of the price which men and women often paid in the early centuries rather than give up their religion. This spirit has not quite passed away. It was evidenced by the Armenian priests who returned to their duty when they knew that they would be forced to endure torture. The necessity can be felt even in the safety of America. Every person has only to recall some grave sin in their past, some time when with wide open eyes they did the thing that they knew to be wrong.

The Way Of Escape
 How can they get rid of this sin? It is a part of the past and cannot be torn out. It cannot be forgotten and if it could be, that would not undo the past. Forgetting, doing better, making a new start, doesn't get rid of the past. Every thought and deed has left its impress. The only way in which to have a past on which there is no shadow is to begin life over again and live it right.

Christ's Offer
 No man can go back to the beginning but what the world can't do, God has done. In his infinite love and mercy he lived this life, becoming the new start for the entire race. He lived the perfect life for every man, carrying it triumphantly to the end. That every man may have his past of purity, Christ offers this new life and this new past on the one condition that the man's past and his life are given to Christ. There must be no mere mending of manners and morals, no patchwork about it. If a man says he can't give up his self, there is no compulsion about it. He may take his choice, either answer for everything he has ever done or accept Christ's offer.

The True Freedom
 To be a Christian is not bondage. It is perfect freedom. Not until a man has learned to ask what is God's will concerning every detail of life does he know what it is to be free. Not until he belongs to Christ, is he really himself. To serve Christ is to reign.

Services Every Day
 The mission services will be continued at Christ and Trinity churches, throughout this week services being held every morning, afternoon and evening. The Holy Cross Fathers have entire charge.

to him, "Say Coroner, there ought to be a law passed that when a man commits murder he shall be prohibited from taking the body out of the state." "Yes, yes," said the coroner, "that is a good idea. I, too, think there should be such a law." And another man present told the story of a coroner aforesaid who asked a physician on the witness stand, "Doctor, what I want to ask you is this: I don't want a scientific disquisition, but just a hand-off opinion. In your judgment is rigor mortis a sure death?"

What Goes Into a Dam
 From the greatest of Power Dams, in Leslie's Monthly for February. The ordinary layman who sees the results of such labor as the dam across the Hudson river at Glen Falls cannot grasp the details with any comprehension. To say that 15,000 barrels of cement were used in making the concrete in which the huge blocks of granite were laid; to state that 400,000 tons of this same granite were built into the wall; that 30,000 trees were cut for the woodwork; that 1,500 men labored for three years to complete this narrow barrier stretching across the river, represents only a series of ungraspable ideas.

The cable ways used to transport buckets of cement and blocks of stone were the largest in the world, the biggest 2,400 feet in length. It needs 11,400 feet, or fully two miles of wire, to run this gigantic aerial road. The finished dam—it probably will be completed next spring—will be 1,400 feet long, exclusive of the 400 foot wall of the canal built to conduct the water to the turbine wheels. The greatest height will be 154 feet, with a width along the top of 17 feet. There are one or two such constructions slightly larger in size, but none that bar so much power and a powerful river. The power developed will be 50,000 horse power at times.

NATURE'S OWN CURE

Hyomel Cures Catarrh Without Dangerous Drugging of the Stomach.

Not until Hyomel was discovered has it been possible to truthfully say that a remedy for catarrh was known. This remedy is breathed through the Hyomel Inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, and during that time every particle of air taken into the air passages and lungs is impregnated with the germ killing and health giving Hyomel. It is the only treatment that cures catarrh.

Stomach drugging often causes disordered digestion or brings on some other diseases, and never makes a permanent cure of catarrh. Hyomel not only kills the germs in the throat and nose, but penetrates to the minutest air cells in the lungs and enters the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood. It frees the mucous membranes from poisonous microbes and gives perfect health.

A complete outfit costs but $1.00 and includes an Inhaler, dropper, and sufficient Hyomel for more than a month's treatment.

The People's Drug Company have so much faith in the merit of Hyomel that they agree to return the money to any purchaser who may be dissatisfied.

Literary Notes

Several years ago a suggestion was made to President Elliot of Harvard, that, inasmuch as the first thing a young man ordinarily did on graduating from college was to choose his life-work, it was important that each student should have presented to him a thorough discussion as to the advantages and temptations of each of the leading professions, so that in determining his life-work he might act with the fullest knowledge attainable. The Cosmopolitan has begun this discussion in its January issue by taking up the legal profession. Besides pointing out what the young man has to encounter in entering upon a lawyer's career, The Cosmopolitan considers at length the evolution which has taken place in the legal profession because of the reorganization of business in great aggregations like the U. S. Steel corporation, title and guarantee companies, and fidelity insurance companies.

feet apart, other rods were run to hold all the members in place. We know that if the bolts fitted tightly in their holes, no harm would come to the tree; and that if bands were placed about the branches they would crease and girdle the parts and work much harm. When the storm had passed, the dear tree stood in its customary mood; and all the following summer it grew as if with renewed determination.—Country Life in America.

Courage or Fatalism?

The little lieutenant who lived just across the street from O. K. Davis, the New York Sun's war correspondent in Tientsin, said to him one day:

"I should be very happy to have you visit me in my home in Japan after this war is over, but I expect to be killed."

He was perfectly sincere and unaffected. His belief did not alter his attention to duty in the slightest. He went wherever he was ordered as gallantly as if it were to a feast, no matter if the field was swept with bullets. When I saw him in Pekin a day or so after the legations had been relieved, he said simply: "Perhaps I shall not be killed this time after all."

Would you call it courage when such a man as that leads a column against a stone wall, and, when he can't get over at first, sits down and waits until he can? He hasn't any conception of courage. He is brave, but with the bravery of a bulldog. There is more real courage in the old hen fluttering over her little chickens to protect them from the threatening hawk. If it were not for them she would be fast enough from the danger.

There you have the essential difference between courage and bravery and between the American soldier and the Japanese or Russian. The Orientals, counting the Russian as an Oriental, are dangerous men to meet because they have no care for the result. How much more dangerous is the man who sees through to the end and discounts it all, yet goes ahead to the desperate finish.—Everybody's Magazine.

CONCERNING TRUSTEES

This (personal responsibility for official acts) is the one thing needful in a republican form of government, and the one thing that cannot be dispensed with in any of the affairs of life where one man performs services for another. No trust would be safe unless the trustee knew what he would be required to render an account of his stewardship to one having authority to terminate it. In no other trust positions are the opportunities for evading responsibility so many or the temptations for betrayal so great and the likelihood of confusing and befogging the issue so favorable as in the public service. Hence it is imperative that the trustee be required to account directly to those whom he represents in the discharge of his trust.

The nomination of all candidates by direct vote under the Australian ballot should appeal to the patriotism of all legislators and lift them up above partisan and personal prejudice, in a united effort to give the people of Wisconsin a system of electing public officials truly representative of public interests; in restoring to the people in full measure this principle of pure democratic government.—Governor La Follette's message.

The Milwaukee Sentinel uses the above excerpt from the governor's message, as a text for an editorial that abounds in good hard sense.

In discussing proposed primary legislation, the paper uses the argument that if the law is to be general in scope, that it should be effect all classes of officials.

The Sentinel states the fact that "there are a number of officers who are now holding positions in the state service who do not come in touch with the people at any point. They are charged with a public trust and in the performance of their official duties they collect and disburse large amounts of public money. Instead of rendering an account of their stewardship to the people direct they are responsible to the executive alone. They are dependent solely upon the good will, the whim or the political necessities of the executive, and so long as they can satisfy him they have nothing to fear from the people."

The commissioner of insurance is elected by the people, but the dairy and food commissioner is appointed by the governor, as are also the commissioner of labor and statistics, the fish and game warden, the state veterinarian, the oil and factory inspectors, the state bank examiner, the tax commissioners, the members of the board of control (including Mr. Grothorst), the state pension agent, the state treasury agent, the university and normal school regents, the superintendent of public property, the fish commissioners, the heads of state institutions and numerous other minor officers who will come under the rule laid down by Governor La Follette."

If the caucus and convention system is to be abandoned, there is no reason why the list of officials should not be included in the popular vote. It would deprive the governor of authority, but it would also relieve him of responsibility.

Reform is in the atmosphere, some of the measures advanced may be impractical, but experience is the only teacher on questions of this kind. If the governor has the confidence in the people that he professes, he will not hesitate to give them free rein.

WHAT IS THE LOBBY

The Governor's recent message is quite emphatic on "the lobby" as was his message to the senate two years ago when that body was accused of being on too intimate terms with the great outside world, and its corrupting influence. The inference might be readily drawn that the lobby is composed of a lot of gamblers and cut-throats, whose peculiar mission is to deprive public morals and barter on the good name of the unsuspecting law-makers. What is the much abused lobby? What is its mission, and what class of men represent it? The lobby is known in political parlance as the "third house". It is as old as government, and never more intelligently represented than today.

Its mission is to safeguard corporate and business interests, and it has just as much right to discuss these questions with law-makers at the seat of government, as it would have to discuss the same interests with them at their homes or places of business.

The legislator frequently needs enlightenment, and if he is disposed to be fair-minded, he desires all the information to be obtained on any question, before committing himself by ballot.

The personal of this lobby is above the average. It is largely composed of men, who are liberally paid to protect the interests of a large constituency. It is customary to think of a railroad as the property of a few individuals of the Vanderbilt and Morgan class.

While it is true that this class of men are largely interested and through their wealth and enterprise the country is blessed with transportation facilities which are unrivaled. It is also true that thousands of stockholders, scattered over this and other lands, are also interested as silent partners.

The railroad corporation, through an intelligent lobby, under the direction of its officers, who are usually not large stockholders, attempts to protect these interests.

Trust funds are involved, and any servant who is recreant in duty, would not long be employed in these responsible positions. What is true of railroads, is very largely true of all interests represented by a lobby. It is an insult to the intelligence as well as the integrity of a legislative body to intimate that its members can be bribed or unjustly influenced by the third house.

If the people's representatives at Madison are not worthy of confidence, they should be placed in an inclosure and kept from public gaze until the day of adjournment.

YEAR'S RECORD

The record of the year just ended will show a marked change in the share which the various ports have had in the distribution of the exports of the United States. The gulf ports show a falling off of about 13 per cent, in exportations as compared with last year, and the Atlantic coast ports a decline of about 10 per cent; while the lake and northern border ports show a gain of 3 per cent, the Pacific coast ports a gain of 10 per cent, and the Mexican border ports a gain of 25 per cent. These marked contrasts, in which the ports tributary to the Atlantic show a reduction and those on the Pacific or fronting upon contiguous territory show an increase, are in keeping with the general trend of the year's commerce, in which exports to Europe especially were affected by the crops failure of last year, since breadstuffs and provisions from the large proportion of the sales of the United States to that part of the world; while our exports to Asia, Mexico and Canada were less affected by crop failures, since manufacturers, form the bulk of our sales to those parts of the world. Hence the decrease in shipments through gulf and Atlantic ports and the increase in those through Pacific ports and those fronting upon contiguous territory.

PLAY BALL!

"Let us not forget the duty we owe to the people. They have sent us here to work." That is what Assemblyman Bradford said, to his associates of the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature yesterday, when the senate resolution in favor of adjournment over to Monday evening was up for discussion; and the members of the assembly showed what they thought of the matter by voting against the senate resolution to a man. The assembly has made a good start. It has an opportunity to set an example which will be followed hereafter in the way of dispatching business. Let it proceed to the end in the spirit in which it has begun. When this matter has been thus disposed of, the senate joint resolution for cutting off new business after February 12 came up. It was disposed of in the same spirit which had governed the decision in the previous instance. That is to say it was adopted without a dissenting vote. The legislature of 1903 means to do business. Its members are to be congratulated upon having shut their ears against the siren of delay.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

Now is the chance of some would-be smart member of the legislature at Madison to introduce a bill into the legislature prohibiting football. A bill has already been introduced asking that railway agents be compelled to stop lying.

Now that Speck von Sternberg is asked for an opinion of America, he has a stereotyped answer all ready for the reporters. He must have made it ready on the other side before he came over.

No man can tell what the world has in store for us. Look at Crocker the ex-ward boss, the politician out for spoils and leader of the Tammany tiger settled down into a respectable milk peddler in England.

Judge Taft is one of the few men who would refuse a seat on the supreme court bench. Why, there are good men right here in Janesville who would be glad of the job.

Finland needs the attention of the world or the race of Finns will belong to the lost races that have run their race and gone. They are starving to death.

Perhaps a few expert accountants might find a job by applying to The Hague tribunal when they take up the Venezuelan question.

Germany says that a state of blockade means war. Why didn't it say so before and Castro might have played a few trumps himself.

Now Oshkosh wonders why it should be held to account for the tax question. Ask the weather man, Dr. Hicks.

It would appear that congress is making ready to arrange for a lot of new jobs for aspiring office seekers.

It seems too bad that South Carolina should bear the name of having such a family as Tillmans in its midst.

The republican party built up the finances of the country and now they refuse to tear them down at one full swoop.

Evidently Speaker Lenroot had his orders from headquarters when he made up his legislative committees.

German residents of San Carlos are very angry over the bombardment of their summer homes by gunboats.

The coal trust for the moment has put the meat trust in the background and other legislation as well.

President Roosevelt is developing the reputation of standing pat himself.

Castro tells his leading merchants that they can buy his bonds or go to jail. They buy.

It will take a Philadelphia lawyer to straighten out President Castro's bills.

Why not give David Rose a rest? He belongs to the Boosters' club all right.

Mark Hanna as the political boss of Delaware seems to be a failure.

Senator Elkins and his anti-trust bill hit the mark. Which Mark?

PRESS COMMENT

La Crosse Chronicle: Mr. Henth thinks that the prosperity wave is about to recede. It will, if we cease to be industrious.

Marquette Eagle: The beef trust men can at least thank the coal trust men for attracting attention from their direction.

Chippewa Herald: Wanted—a few tons of harmony, to be delivered in small lots throughout the session. Apply to the Wisconsin legislature.

Oshkosh Times: Child labor is one of the most serious matters we have to go up against. More attentions must be given to it. Any father will say that who has boys of his own.

Madison Democrat: The governor would let a man hunt on his own land without a license. If this sort of consideration increases a few may soon hope to make his own apple-jack tax free.

La Crosse Republican and Leader: If the question as to public ownership of coal mines were substituted right at this time to the people, the negative vote would probably consist mainly of the operators.

Evening Wisconsin: The conservatism of the trust legislation favored by Mr. Morgan will probably prove to be so extreme that a law for the regulation of combinations would be Hamlet with Hamlet left out of the cast.

Sheboygan Telegram: It would be a sad blow to the democratic editors to have the tariff taken out of politics. Growing against protection is their one mainstay, and the people forget "paramount" issues.

Eau Claire Telegram: If Uncle Sam takes possession of all the coal mines of these United States, the old gentleman will earn to his sorrow, that the troubles of the lee man are not in the same class with those of the coal man.

Waukesha Freeman: A Kansas judge has decided that the Bible may be read in the public schools and that Sunday theatres may go on unmolested in Topeka. The churches are trying to figure out gains and losses in these decisions.

State Journal: The grim fact seems to be that whatever congress may do, however much in good faith the producers and distributors of coal may seek to mitigate conditions, the United States will be in distress until warm weather sets in.

Watertown Republican: The reciprocity which involves the destruction of one industry for the benefit of another industry is not republican reciprocity. It can only bring harm to the country and the republican party.

Oshkosh Northwestern: There are rumors, and some of them from sources which cannot be impugned, to the effect that the anti-pass law in this state is being violated and evaded in a manner that would call for vigorous denunciation if the people but knew the true facts.

Eau Claire Leader: From all accounts there will be the usual rush of bills in the legislature this session. Hundreds of these which are utterly useless will occupy valuable time which might be better employed. The great bill for giving everybody everything, if it is introduced this winter, if it is introduced be accorded a favorable reception.

Chippewa Herald: Congressmen Grists of Indiana has introduced a bill in congress, limiting fortunes to ten million dollars. There is a suspicion that this measure is directed against the editorial fraternity of Wisconsin. Why should we be limited? Let's protest brethren, before this thing goes any further.

Kenosha News: And now they are going to turn all the amateur poets in Minnesota loose and have the legislature adopt a "state song," whatever that is. You would think that there had been trouble enough up there and over the primary election law to last for awhile without starting up the poets.

Appleton Post: The house committee on the judiciary has decided to report unfavorably the bill providing a change of presidential inauguration dates from March 4 to the last Thursday of April. So weighty is precedent in Anglo-Saxon governments even when every good reason is against it.

Fond du Lac Reporter: A Chicago woman's club has started a crusade against the cozy corner on moral grounds. There are a good many worse things in Chicago than cozy corners but then, perhaps the ladies are starting in on the lesser evil and will tackle the other things later.

PEN PICTURE ABOUT COPPER

JAMES C. WILMARTH WRITES OF COPPER FIELDS.

NEW DISCOVERIES IN ARIZONA

Former Janesville Resident Describes the Country in a Charming Manner.

The following extract of a letter from James C. Wilmarth of the El Paso Herald, will be read with interest by his many friends in Janesville: I left a week ago Sunday for the Bisbee copper district with a lot of El Paso business men. There were forty-three in the party and we had our own Pullmans, so we got along very comfortably. Without the sleepers we should have bunked out in railroad depots the most of the time. We saw three of the greatest copper properties in the world—the W. C. Greene mines at Cananea, the "Copper Queen" and "Calumet" and "Arizona" at Bisbee and the group of open pit workings at Clifton and Morenci. The immense scale of the work is the remarkable thing. They are handling ore that contains only 30 pounds of copper to the ton and to extract that amount must crush, wash, concentrate and smelt it, and sell the copper for ten cents a pound in New York. That makes the copper in a ton of ore worth $300.00. New York; when a good fair quality of gravel ought to be worth considerably more.

We saw some of the most picturesque scenery in the world. The Cananea camp stretches out along a little mountain narrow gauge railroad for seven miles with shanties stuck on the side of the mountain wherever there is room to drive a peg. As the road turns and twists we look back over the green peaks of the Sierra Madre mountains and see the intersecting ranges fifty miles away. The whole country makes a changing panorama.

Half way up the mountain we stopped and went into a mine that goes straight in three quarters of a mile. The whole mountain is copper ore and they lay out the inside of it in blocks 250 feet square and take out alternate squares. Each of these mines has some special advantage. In Cananea the ore is fairly rich and is handled without hoisting. In Bisbee they must hoist all the ore about 1,100 feet but the out put is much richer. In Clifton the ore is very low grade but it is not even necessary to cut tunnels—they simply tear down the front of the mountain with dynamite and run it down inclines in dumps.

They took us up one of the inclines at Clifton. You remember the inclined railroad at Niagara Falls from Prospect Park to the foot of the falls? Well this incline worked the same way only there was no brake and no cog-gear underneath—nothing but a wire rope that pulled one car up and let another car down. And the slope for 1,400 feet long is about as steep as a church steeple. We got in the iron ore car and when the rope tightened everybody held on and thought of New Year's resolutions. Three or four lost their nerve just before the car started and rolled out just in time. If that Niagara Falls trip is worth 50 cents, this Clifton ride ought to be worth a hundred dollars—to anybody who wants to realize how pleasant a thing it is to get back on solid ground.

We had dinners and dances and parties all the way around the circuit. The trip was made to develop business in the towns on the new El Paso & Southwestern road, and it looks as if the country would be a good one for El Paso to work.

This week we have the carnival—and a snow storm—the first winter weather we have seen at all. Had to come at the wrong time of course, to freeze up the visitors.

THE EVENTS OF THE DAY

Clerks Notice: Tomorrow evening at 7:30 sharp there will be a special meeting at Assembly hall of the members of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association. Full attendance desired. Joseph Connors, President.

Train Wrecked: A freight wreck on the Northwestern Saturday night near Roscoe, Ill., delayed the trains over that line to this city considerably.

Is Held Over: The case of the state of Wisconsin vs. L. R. Carr who was arrested in Madison last week for jumping a board bill at the Myers, was called in the municipal court and held open on account of the absence of the defendant who is under bonds for his appearance.

Attention Foresters: The regular meeting will be postponed till Saturday evening, the 31st. All members are requested to be present as there is business of importance. J. A. Caniff, C. R.

A Busy Man: State Veterinarian E. D. Roberts went to Madison this morning to attend a meeting of the Live Stock Sanitary board, of which he is a member. He will go to Monroe from Madison to investigate a reported case of glanders and from there to Chillicothe, Wis., where another case is reported.

Use Blocks For Floor: The floor in the Northwestern roundhouse is being paved with large blocks, cut from discarded bridge timbers. Two or three stalls have been already repaired in this way, and the others will follow in succession. The blocks furnish a cheap and lasting substitute for the planks commonly used, and have the advantage of utilizing timber that would otherwise be worthless.

Lively Runaway: A delivery horse belonging to the Boston store ran away this morning from in front of the establishment on River street. He turned east on Milwaukee street and ran across the bridge to Main street where he was caught. No damage was done to the outfit.

CHURCH TO HAVE SOUVENIR BOOK

A VALUABLE EDITION FOR ST
MARY'S CONGREGATION.

AGENT SKIPPED WITH FUNDS

Many People Foolish Enough to Sign Notes and Pay Cash for Advertisements Also.

An attractive souvenir of St. Mary's church is in the hands of the printers and will be ready for distribution among the parishioners within a short time. The book is one that will be prized by the members of the church for the interesting information which it contains.

The first part of the book is devoted to the history of the new church building. Interesting articles, which appeared from time to time concerning the progress of the work, have been compiled and the result is a complete account of the building of the new church. The latter part of the book contains the church directory, Rev. W. A. Goebel having been engaged for some time past in securing the names of the heads of families in the church. Catholic churches always estimate their membership, and the number of families but Father Goebel has endeavored to make his directory unusually complete by including not only the heads of families but all sons and daughters who are over age or are self supporting.

Dishonest Dealings
Father Goebel had an unpleasant experience in connection with this souvenir and had he been so disposed several Janesville people would have been compelled to pay twice for the souvenir or for their advertisement in it. This state of affairs was due to the loose business methods of two people themselves and to the peculiar ideas on honesty held by an agent.

Agent Engaged
This agent, who came here from another city highly recommended, was engaged to solicit advertising and subscriptions for the souvenir. He was to take no money in advance and in order to safeguard against any misunderstanding or any possibility of dishonest dealing Father Goebel had form printed which was in reality a promissory note. Each advertiser who entered into a contract for space in the souvenir was requested to sign one of these notes which is a promise to pay the bearer the specified sum when the souvenir is delivered.

Got Money
In spite of this plain statement, the agent was able to collect the money as well as the signed note from several people. Certain irregularities of conduct made Father Goebel suspicious of the man and he went to him and asked him to turn over the orders. The agent did so and then left town, sending word to Father Goebel that he was sick.

Gave Double Payment
In the investigation which followed it was discovered that several of the people whose notes Father Goebel held had already paid the agent. The affair was discovered in time so that the church will not be the loser as the amount which the agent collected did not quite reach the amount of the salary to which the work which he had done entitled him.

CITY HALL WORK NOT SATISFACTORY

Marble Wainscoting is in Bad Shape—Repairs Must Be Made by Contractors.

Alderman Lowell is home from a business sojourn at Louisville, Ky. As chairman of the building committee of the city hall he made an inspection of it this morning and found the marble wainscoting in bad shape in a number of places. In the hallway leading to the municipal court he found several pieces of the wainscoting that were off entirely and it will cost considerable to put it back in shape. The city still owes Rowson & Son about $500 and this will be retained until the wainscoting is properly repaired.

GIVEN ONE YEAR FOR HIS CRIME

CHRIS. NICHOLSON PLEADS GUILTY TO BURGLARY.

ASKED FOR IMMEDIATE TRIAL

Confesses That He Burglarized Philip Reus' Saloon, and is Sent to Waupun.

After staying in the lock-up from Friday until this morning, without seeing outsiders Chris Nicholson, who was arrested for burglarizing P. H. Reus' saloon, owned up to committing the crime and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

He admitted to Chief Hogan that he burglarized the place and had no accomplices. He was familiar with the building and had no trouble about getting into the upper room and going down the dumb waiter shaft into the saloon here he cleaned up the money in the drawers and cash register. He denied however that he took any cigars. He did not know exactly how much money he secured, but thought that he spent about $10 about town and also bought a pair of shoes for $2. He had $8 on his person when arrested and told Chief Hogan to give that to Mr. Reus, so that he must have secured about $20.

Quickly Sentenced
He was brought before Judge Field this morning and waived examination on the warrant charging him with the crime and was held in $500 bonds for trial on February 2 at 10 o'clock. He made a petition to the court asking for an immediate trial and plead guilty to the information charging him with burglary, filed by District Attorney Jackson.

His Story
Nicholson stated that he was twenty-eight years of age and had lived in Janesville four years. He had never been convicted of a crime and got into his present trouble through drinking.

In view of his pleading guilty and the other circumstances connected with the case Judge Field gave him the lightest sentence possible under the statutes. He sentenced him to a term of one year at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Waupun from noon today. Sheriff Appleby left at 12:45 with Nicholson to turn him over to the state authorities.

Joseph Brogan of Richland Center, a cousin of Mrs. D. Ryan, is the guest of the family for a few days.

Some Heroes And a Battery

(Copyright, 1902, by G. L. Kilmer.)

WHEN Grant was pushing his column southward against Pemberton in Mississippi early in December, 1862, a hurry summons was sent the Confederate general in Arkansas to send troops across the Mississippi river for defense of Vicksburg. General Hindman was in northwestern Arkansas at the time the order reached him to countermand. A Federal army under General Blunt was marching from Springfield, Mo., southward to invade Arkansas, and Hindman made up his mind to fight with Blunt before leaving the field.

Blunt took up his position on Cane Hill to await the arrival of General Herron's supporting column of 6,000 men, then marching to join him. Blunt was a typical Kansas man of that period. Born in New England, he had settled in Ohio, then emigrated to Kansas. He enlisted in 1861 and rapidly rose to the rank of a general. Having learned that Hindman was marching north to fight, Blunt called up Herron, but when the battle opened, Dec. 7, the Federal columns

A FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY

December 7, 1862

Wisconsin men. "When you see their hands upon those wheels, Dick, fire, but not before!"

Shelby's dismounted troopers lay in the thickets alongside of Collins' battery, out of view of the enemy, and the daring assailants bounded along, expecting an easy victory over the silent battery and that of Collins as well. At the base of the slope the Wisconsin men stopped for an instant and drank heartily from their canteens, laughing at the easy task ahead of them. Collins waited as Shelby had directed, waited until the intrepid charging line passed the silent cannon, waited even until the doomed Badgers were within fifty feet of Shelby's crouching troopers, then let fly double loads of canister. Herron's men rallied and with re-enforcements again tried to take the guns, but were driven back to their own batteries, leaving the Confederate pieces untouched.

When the Twentieth Wisconsin received the order to charge the heights, it advanced at double quick the distance of 100 rods, where it came face to face with the enemy. The regiment halted and fired two rounds, then commenced to climb the hill. The slope

Of Interest To the New Woman

ELIZABETH BRYANT JOHNSTON and her two nieces are examples of how talent nowadays often runs in several women of one family. Miss Elizabeth Johnston herself is known best as the author of the textbook, "George Washington Day by Day," and the recent volume of old Kentucky sketches entitled "Days That Are No More." Miss Johnston has two brothers, Anderson and Judge Sanders Johnston. These each have one daughter. Judge Johnston's daughter Mary early developed exceptional power as a singer, which was cultivated abroad, and the young lady became professionally known as Marie Decca, the soprano. She now lives in New York city, where she is established as a singer and instructor in vocal music. Meantime her cousin Frances, daughter of Anderson Johnston, showed a strong bent toward drawing and painting. She went to Paris and studied art two years, even as her cousin had studied vocal music; then she returned to her home in Washington. It was her intention to devote herself to illustrating. As an aid to the accomplishment of her purpose she learned photography, not dreaming of making it other than subsidiary to her picture making by hand. She became so fascinated by the picture taking that she decided to give herself to art photography. She opened her studio in her father's Washington home, and that is her headquarters. But she travels all over the country photographing interesting objects for magazine articles which she herself writes. Thus she has pictured and described coal mines and salt wells and much else of interest. Lately she photographed Booker Washington's school at Tuskegee. She it was who photographed Miss Alice Roosevelt on the debut of that young lady. From the money obtained from the sale of the photographs Miss Johnston built the Alice Roosevelt wing to her studio.

If a majority of the women of your club fail to see things as you do, don't you pop up in meeting, tear off your club badge, fling it at somebody, resign your membership and dash out of the meeting with the grace and celerity of an infuriated cow, making of yourself, of women's clubs and of all woman-kind a laughing stock in the eyes of gods and newspaper reporters. If you must disagree seriously with your sisters, and most of the time this is quite unnecessary, rise and express your disapproval in a cool, ladylike way. Then, if you decide that you must resign, send in a letter, dignified and calm—always that—expressing your regret that you must leave the club.

Don't become excited and sputter, whatever the provocation. Scolding and sputtering are marks of a feeble mind.

May Hopkins, who herself established a most successful business in New York city, says that when she worked for other people she was never afraid of doing more than she was paid for.

If you must do something you don't like, don't make a noisy, scolding, impatient fuss over it. Go and do it cheerfully and don't say anything about it, and by and by you will come to the point where nothing you have to encounter is really very disagreeable to you.

A writer, speaking of Lida Rose McCabe, the Journalist, says that, "for a woman, she is full of exceptionally bright humor." Dear, dear! The concept of a certain sex, which shall be nameless, is monumental.

The women's dog show in Madison Square Garden, New York, proved that the breeding of fashionable canines is profitable. Many animals of the popular breeds sell for from $50 to $500 apiece. Besides, here is a field of industry in which women can be as successful as men. For generations English ladies of the highest social standing have kept kennels and reared blue blooded dogs.

In the recent political campaign in New York one of the legislative candidates, Morris Byk, was vigorously aided by his four pretty sisters. They made a house to house canvass of the district, sent letters to wavering citizens, helped their brother in giving staid dinners and made telling little arguments for him. Now, if women had the ballot in New York the four pretty Byk sisters could not only have done all they did do for their brother, but could have deposited four plump, round tickets to his count also.

One of the most pathetic and tragic stories I ever heard is that recently a farmer's wife killed herself by drinking carbolic acid because her husband drove her to incessant labor like a beast of burden. She was forced or thought she was forced, to do a man's work in the fields and a woman's work in the house. So one day, after finishing the harrowing of a field, she went home and at one stroke put herself beyond the reach of her slave driver forever. But she would have done vastly better just to sit down flat and say to her master that he might chop her into mince-meat, but she would not work in the field. He would not have harmed her.

PECULIAR CASE AT MOUND CITY

W. Hammons Shoots the Husband of His Former Spouse.

Mound City, Ill., Jan. 26.—Mystery attaches to a shooting that took place in this place. Dr. W. H. Hodgson was shot twice in the face by W. Hammons of Herrin, Ill., but the reason for the deed cannot be ascertained. The wounds may prove fatal.

Hodgson came here last Wednesday with his wife. Hammons arrived Sunday and went to the cottage Hodgson had rented and was occupying.

After the shooting Mrs. Hodgson said she was formerly the wife of Hammons and lived at Shelbyville. She declined to explain the shooting. Hammons is in jail.

NEGROES IN A DEADLY FIGHT

Men and Women Engage in Battle at Bloomington, Ill.

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 26.—A sensational battle among twenty colored men and women aroused the city. It is believed that several are killed or badly wounded. Mrs. Joseph Brown was shot through the head and will die. She was found on the railway tracks and removed just before a train arrived. Twenty or thirty shots were exchanged. The entire police department is on the scene and several arrests have been made.

HAY'S FRIENDS DO HIM HONOR

ENDS ALASKA BOUNDARY FIGHT

Signing of the Treaty for a Commission to Settle the Dispute is Expected to Be the Cap Sheaf to His Efforts.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Friends of Secretary Hay are disposed to congratulate him on the numerous diplomatic triumphs he has scored since he became the head of the State department. The announcement that he had completed the negotiations for a treaty with Great Britain for the appointment of a joint commission to settle the long drawn out dispute over the Alaskan boundary is pointed to as the cap sheaf of a numerous line of diplomatic successes. That their praise has substantial cause is shown, they say, by the following list of important results achieved by the State department under Secretary Hay's directions:

Drew the modus vivendi with reference to the Alaskan boundary, by which a clash between the United States and Canada was averted.

Saves China. The powers with reference to China, by which a principle was laid down which in the end prevented the dismemberment of China.

Negotiated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, by which the construction of an isthmian canal by the United States, the neutrality of which was guaranteed to the world's commerce, was made possible.

Wrote the Roumanian note to the powers signatory to the treaty of Berlin, which guaranteed civil rights to the Hebrews in Roumania, obtaining for them their rights, and preventing further persecution and the immigration of thousands of impoverished Hebrews to the United States every year.

Negotiated a reciprocity treaty with Cuba.

Induced the powers coercing Venezuela to recognize the principle of arbitration and refer the question to The Hague tribunal.

Negotiated the Panama Canal treaty with Colombia.

Negotiated a treaty with Great Britain to settle the Alaskan boundary dispute by a joint commission.

OPPOSE CUBAN PACT.

Outlook for Reciprocity Treaty Is Not So Bright as It Was.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Opposition to the Cuban reciprocity treaty is growing. It has been the claim of the friends of the treaty that it would receive the solid Republican vote. It is definitely known that this promise will not be realized. Senator Bard of California is one Republican at least who will vote against ratification, and his colleague, Mr. Perkins, has sent his legislature, now in session, a telegram announcing that should the legislature request, he also will vote against it. The effect of the British protest against the treaty is problematical. Should it result in the defeat of the committee amendments which commit the government to a policy of not granting concessions to sugar from other countries and which make the life of the treaty five years, sugar beet senators who were opposed to the treaty without these amendments will probably again fight its ratification. Altogether the prospects of Cuban reciprocity are not as bright as they were, and the danger of the treaty falling seems to increase. Senator Cullom, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who has the treaty in charge, does not at present propose to press its consideration until the statehood deadlock is broken.

Extra Session Talk.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Several Republican senators expect an extra session of congress. Senator Spooner, who is an excellent judge of the legislative situation, says that an extra session is practically inevitable. The deadlock over the statehood bill has occupied so much time and prevented the consideration of so many important bills that it is doubtful whether congress can dispose of the pressing matters even though the statehood fight is finished this week. It is the intention of Mr. Quay of Pennsylvania, who is leading the omnibus forces, to press matters during the next few days in the hope of obtaining an agreement for a vote, but the senate leaders who are opposing him give no evidence of surrendering.

Day for Supreme Bench.

Washington Jan. 26.—William R. Day of Ohio, judge of the United States Circuit court of the Sixth circuit, has indicated to the president his willingness to accept an appointment as associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States. This is in response to the informal tender. He will succeed Justice Shiras, who is expected to retire some time next month. The president has not yet selected Judge Day's successor in the Circuit court.

House Eulogies Dead.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—The House of Representatives inaugurated the experiment of holding memorial services for deceased members upon the Sabbath. It will be followed hereafter during this session and probably will become the general practice. At the session yesterday tribute was paid to the life and public services of the late Representative Russell of Connecticut and Sheppard and De Graffenried of Texas, each of whom died during the congressional recess. The attendance in the galleries was quite large, and there was a numerous assemblage of the friends of the deceased members on the floor.

Consular Appropriation.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, as reported to the Senate, carries $26,000 more than the amount appropriated by the house. It authorizes the payment to the widow of the late minister to Japan, Mr. Buck, of $6,000, and to the heirs of Thomas F. Prentiss, late consul at Martinique, who lost his life in the Mont Pelée disaster, of $5,000. The other increases are mainly in the rank and pay of consuls.

Moody on Vacation.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Secretary Moody and his stenographer, Mr. Gause, left Washington on the naval yacht Sylph for Fortress Monroe, Va., where they will board the Dolphin and go to sea for a cruise of three or four days. Secretary Moody is taking the trip for the benefit of his health.

Seeks Information.

Warsaw, Ill., Jan. 26.—A family feud culminated in murder. Wash Gollner, his four sons and "Jack" Clark found the three Schmitt boys, for whom they had been looking, in a saloon here and a battle ensued. John Darth joined the Schmitt boys in the fight. Beer and champagne bottles were used as weapons. In ten minutes the five Gollners were all more or less seriously cut. Perry Schmitt's skull was crushed and he died within twenty minutes. Homer Schmitt is in a precarious condition.

VILLAGE ENTERTAINS COUNTY

"Mrs. Austin's says, 'My buckwheat cakes will please you, if you love the good old fashioned flavor.'"

It soothes the bowels, stimulates the liver, cleanses the kidneys, tones the stomach, purges the system of all poisonous germs. Rocky Mountain Tea. Smith Bros.

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 26.—George Ziegler, a brakeman on the three P's railroad, has inherited a real estate worth $200,000 and $19,000 cash by the death of an uncle.

Bill Has Little Chance.

The bill introduced in the Virginia house of delegates to prohibit promiscuous kissing will hardly become a law. There are too many bachelors and married men, not to mention widowers, among the members of the legislature.

Many Specimens of Clover.

Specimens of four, five, six, seven, eight and nine-leaved clovers have been presented to Queen Alexandra by a Welsh lady.

STUDENT DIES OF OVERSTUDY

BURSTS ARTERY IN HIS HEAD

Work by Day in a Barber Shop and Priming for Examinations at Night Prove Disastrous to an Ambitious Young Man.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 26.—C. Herbert Orr of Hinsdale, Ill., a student in the engineering department here, died at his rooms from the effects of excessive studying. With the final examinations a week off, young Orr began to study last Thursday, and sat up until 3 o'clock each morning puzzling over his mathematics and mechanics. "Late Saturday night," said his roommate, "Herbert complained of a terrible headache, and went to bed at a quarter to 2—earlier than he has before during the week. At 6 o'clock in the morning, when he rose, he had dressed all but his sweater, when he cried out, putting his hands to his head: 'O, I have broken something in my head! Send for a doctor, quick!'"

Beyond Medical Aid.

The first doctor summoned was not home, and before a second could be secured the young student had expired. Dr. Darling, the attending physician, said that Orr had died by bursting an artery from an excess of blood in the head.

There are two of the family left now, a mother and a sister. The father died two years ago, forcing the young student to support himself. But the boy would not give up his chosen profession and stuck bravely to the task of supporting his family by working in a barber shop and studying at the same time.

Yields to Hard Study.

His work at the barber shop required nearly all of Orr's time, and it was only by working overtime that he arranged to go to his recitations. He thus had to study until 12 and get up at 6 all the year round, and for six weeks studied until 3 because of the coming "exams."

He was a tall, muscular fellow and declared that he had never been sick in his life. His father was an athlete in his college days and died of heart disease from over exertion. His mother is an invalid and has been for seven years.

Mother Is Ill.

Orr's father was the proprietor of a barber-shop in Hinsdale, and Mrs. Orr still owns her husband's shop, which is directed by a foreman. Herbert Orr was graduated from the Hinsdale high school, and for a year worked in his father's shop. Two years ago he entered the university here.

The news was wired to his family, but owing to the condition of Mrs. Orr a friend of the family came to Ann Arbor in her place.

CONSUL FINDS A MISSING BOY

Henri Merou of Chicago Notifies Milwaukee of Vivier's Whereabouts.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 26.—Charles Vivier, who left Milwaukee Dec. 26 for Chicago and could not be found afterward, has been discovered in Los Angeles, Cal. H. Merou, French consul at Chicago, has written that the young man is being cared for at the French consulate in that city. Vivier is 17 years old. He won a money prize in school and since then has been visiting French consulates and writing his school regarding French industries in the United States.

WOLCOTT GIVES UP THE FIGHT

Urges People of Colorado to Accept Election of H. M. Teller.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 26.—The climax in the senatorial fight in Colorado came when ex-Senator E. O. Wolcott, the candidate of the so-called "stalewart" wing of the Republican party, announced his withdrawal from any further contest, and urged the people of Colorado to accept the situation as it stands by the election of Senator Henry M. Teller to succeed himself by the joint session of the Democratic senate and representatives.

Even Mr. Long's intimate friends were not aware that he had been in the hospital a week.

Terribly Bloated, Severe Pain.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Completely.

When your heart is right you are unconscious that you have one; when anything goes wrong you know it at once—if you take heed. The heart warns by shortness of breath, palpitation, fluttering, hard beating, pain in chest, left side, or between shoulder blades, fainting, swooning or sinking spells. The only reliable remedy that any one knows of is Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It has always cured when nothing else would even help. Read the remarkable statement of Mrs. Ingram: "Dr. Miles' Heart Cure saved my life and from insanity. I was very skeptical when I began using them but my boy begged me to give them a fair trial and I bought three bottles of the Heart Cure and four of the Nerve. My heart fluttered so and I could hardly walk because from my knees to my feet my legs were terribly bloated in the afternoon. I suffered from terrible burning in my throat. The top of my head was sore, ached, pain in the small of my back, I lost my appetite and could not sleep. I suffered from pains in my left shoulder, swelling under left arm, pain around my heart, shortness of breath and extreme nervous spells. My doctor gave me up but Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me completely. My pains and aches and palpitation are all gone and I am now enjoying good health. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Miles' Remedies and hope that others may experience the same benefit that I have." Mrs. N. A. Ingram, Stanton, Mich.
